Aryeh Fischer, M.D. is a native of Baltimore, MD. He received both his undergraduate and medical degree from the University of Maryland. Upon graduating from medical school, he pursued his internship and residency training in internal medicine in Philadelphia, PA at Temple University Hospital. He was then honored to have served as Chief Medical Resident at Temple University Hospital from 2001-2002. Upon completing his Chief Medical Resident year, he moved to Colorado to obtain subspecialty training in Rheumatology at the University of Colorado. He served as a clinical fellow in Rheumatology at the University of Colorado from 2002-2004. After graduating from his fellowship program, he joined the faculty of Rheumatology at the National Jewish Medical and Research Center in Denver, CO in July 2004.

Since joining the faculty of National Jewish, Dr. Fischer has focused his clinical and research interests within the areas of systemic autoimmune diseases such as systemic lupus erythematosus, rheumatoid arthritis, and scleroderma. He has developed clinical expertise with patients referred nationally for diagnostic evaluation of autoimmune lung diseases and complex rheumatologic illnesses. He served as co-Attending of the Scleroderma Clinic at the University of Colorado from 2005 through the spring of 2007, and is now the Director of a newly formed Scleroderma clinic at National Jewish.

He has presented numerous scientific presentations at national pulmonary and rheumatology meetings and has a growing number of original research publications within the area of scleroderma lung disease. In recognition of his clinical expertise and research achievements, Dr. Fischer was most recently honored by his colleagues on the faculty of National Jewish by the being voted the 2007 Clinician of the Year for the Department of Medicine.

11:40-12:10 Raul Torres, PhD, Associate Professor, Integrated Department of Immunology

Raul M. Torres, Ph.D., in the Integrated Department of Immunology at National Jewish, specializes in research related to asthma, basic immunology, cellular and molecular biology, COPD/chronic obstructive pulmonary disease/emphysema and inflammation. He earned his doctorate at the University of Washington, and was a postdoctoral fellow at the Institute for Genetics, University of Cologne in Germany. He was also a Scientific Member of the Basel Institute for Immunology in Basel, Switzerland. His work has focused on the development and function of B lymphocytes, and now also includes how white blood cells migrate to and function within the lung.

I am attaching the itinerary for your tour of the Hospital. I know Dr. Schwartz wanted to talk with a pulmonologist while he was at the hospital and Lisa is working on that. If you have any questions please feel free to contact me or Lisa Tadiri.
Thank you,
Julie

I have attached the latest money rep9ort and a goal sheet so we know what we still need to sell to reach our goal. I am still hopefully we can sell a $25,000 sponsor but if you feel otherwise let me know and I can play with the numbers so we still reach our goal and know how to get there. As you will also note, our goals is $400,000 but for now I am just showing how we can get to $377,000. Keep selling the High Rollers and I feel confident I can change that number.

Keep up the great work, money is coming in at a regular basis now so I will keep updating you.
